
After ten years of silence, the U-2 spy pilot tells his story.

No airplane pilot had ever flown higher than Francis Gary Powers.

And, when his plane was shot down in Russia, no man's reputation ever sank lower.

Branded a "coward" and a "traitor," Powers has never before answered his critics. Now, ten years later, he gives his account of what really happened over Russia on May 1, 1960. And in Washington, D.C., during the troubled days that followed.

- Did the U.S. Government "plant" the U-2 with the intention of having it caught?
- Was Powers supposed to kill himself if captured?
- How was Khrushchev able to trap Eisenhower into lying – and being caught at it?
- What internationally-known figure may have tipped the Russians about the U-2?
- What did Powers "spill" to the Russians?
- Why did it take ten years for Powers to tell the full story?

These are some of the questions Powers answers as he reveals the startling details of his training, his mission, his trial and imprisonment – and, finally, the crushing criticism that greeted his return to America.

But Powers does more than answer questions. He asks some, too. Hard questions that must be answered if America is to avoid another incident like U-2. Or Pueblo.

Ten years ago, Francis Gary Powers shocked the nation. His book will do it again.
